

A level Law

Why do I need to complete a bridging activity?

The purpose of this activity is to aid your preparation for advanced level study and make the transition from GCSE study as smooth as possible. Some activities are written pieces of work, some are research-based and some are practical. They should be completed to the best of your ability and they will give you the opportunity to start to showcase your talent for your chosen subjects. As these are compulsory activities, it is vital that you put in the time and effort to ensure they are completed to the highest standard.

When should I hand this in?

You should complete this activity for the start of your first lesson in September.

How will I be given feedback?

Feedback appropriate to the task will be given to you by your teacher during your first few weeks on the course.

Summary of the activity

1. Research into the topic of causation.
2. Make notes whilst listening to/watching a series of podcasts explaining the topic.
3. Apply your legal research to a given scenario.

Student Name (to be completed by the student)

A level Law

Your study of A level Law requires the introduction of several key concepts. In preparation for the start of your course, you need to prepare the topic of causation – this is key to your understanding of criminal law. You must therefore ensure you have completed the following tasks.

* Please note that internet access is required. ****

- a) Access the A level Law Padlet by clicking here, or by using your mobile to scan the QR code (right).
- b) Load up the Padlet and complete the tasks in the order in which they appear.
- c) Make sure you complete ALL tasks and store your work safely. It will be used within the first few weeks of your study of A level Law.